Socialization and recreation are important for everybody! Are you aware of the options that now exist?

When you think about the preferences and interests of your family members served by RCOC, do you think they would enjoy programs that are integrated with persons who are not served by RCOC? If so, there is now a separate listing of social and recreational programs that provide opportunities for your family members to receive services in settings that are integrated and support full access to the greater community. These programs are considered compliant with the Home and Community-Based Services (HCBS) federal requirements, and if your family member is interested in any of these programs, you can discuss possible funding options with your RCOC Service Coordinator.

A frequently updated list of programs that meet the HCBS requirements can be found by scanning the QR code below or clicking here:

If your family member instead chooses to participate in programs that are specifically designed for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities and which may not include opportunities for integration, please review the programs on the following pages. Please note that some of these programs may be integrated with persons who do not receive regional center services, but have not yet been assessed regarding HCBS requirements. Also, the following programs are not currently funded by RCOC, but the information is being provided to you as community resources.

Airport Travel

In addition to the resources listed below, RCOC's website features links to helpful articles and resources for air travel. From the home page, go to Resources & Support Groups – Transportation/Travel <https://www.rcocdd.com/community-support/travel/>

TSA Resources: Going through airport security can be especially challenging for those traveling with family members who have special needs. To help make the process easier, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) can provide a Passenger Support Specialist. Families concerned about the checkpoint process or who need special accommodation can ask a TSA officer or supervisor for help from a Passenger Support Specialist. Parents may also call the TSA Cares hotline at 1-855-787-2227 ahead of time to ensure a Passenger Support Specialist can be onsite when needed. You may also request assistance through the TSA screening checkpoint by completing the form on the link <https://www.tsa.gov/contact-center/form/cares>.

The agency's website (<https://www.tsa.gov/travel/passenger-support>) also features short videos on screening procedures for travelers with Autism or Intellectual Disabilities and those who use mobility devices such as wheelchairs. Families can also download and complete TSA's Disability Notification Card which includes contact information for TSA Cares.

John Wayne Airport: RCOC has partnered with John Wayne Airport on the Helping Hands program to provide sensitivity training aimed at supporting the airport's efforts to ensure a safe and comfortable experience for all travelers. John Wayne Airport understands traveling through an airport can be a challenging experience for individuals with hidden disabilities like Autism. To ease some of the stress associated with airport travel, our Helping Hands team is here to help. To submit a request, please complete an online Helping Hands form (<https://www.cognitofrms.com/JohnWayneAirport1/AssistanceRequest>) or call (949) 852-4000. Helping Hands assistance is provided at no charge and is available daily from 6:00 a.m. – 11:00 p.m. Please submit your request at least 72 hours in advance of your travel.

The Helping Hands team can:

- Receive specialized assistance by Customer Relations staff who can guide you through the arrival, check-in, security and boarding processes.
- Receive an optional yellow bracelet which allows airport workers to subtly identify guests in need of an extra level of customer service and support.
- Provide information and support with the TSA Cares program.

RCOC Emergency Identification Card: Anytime you're in the community, it's a good idea to carry your emergency identification card from Regional Center of Orange County, which has information about people that first responders and other security-related professionals can call. If you have lost your emergency identification card, be sure to ask your RCOC Service Coordinator for a new one.

Beach Wheelchairs

Beach Wheelchairs are equipped with large, wide wheels which can roll across the sand without sinking. They usually require users to be accompanied by someone pushing them, although several California locations offer motorized chairs which may be self-propelled.

All of the beaches listed below own their own wheelchairs and lend them free of charge. Users may be asked to leave a form of personal identification while borrowing the chair. Chairs are most commonly available from a lifeguard or the entrance kiosk at a beach, although a few are handled by concessionaires whose names appear on the list. Some may be reserved ahead of time, while others are available on a first-come, first-served basis. It is recommended to call ahead for availability. To check out other beaches and get more information, go to the website <https://www.coastal.ca.gov/access/beach-wheelchairs.html>.
